It is important not to set ourselves limits. Ideas come to those who have the knowledge, experience and above all curiosity. A concept which is better expressed with a word inherited from ancient Greek, TEKNE ( ), literally "knowing how to do". From here everything concerning research and development starts. It then becomes TECHNOLOGY, which is the expression of experience and knowledge made available to all. That's how the new STILE collection was born: geometry and lines which merge together with the new aesthetic trends and with the research of new decorative combinations. A continuous research of linearity, synonymous of coherence, tidiness and order to be combined with fantasy, experimentation and imagination. Logic and irrationality mix to decorate residential or business environments, where life flows continuously blending action, thought and feeling. Today everything is fluid, the traditional organization schemes and vision of the future got lost. TEKNE wants to lead this flow which starts from the detail and reaches the universal!

oil, it differs from the latter for its easier maintenance.
It is the first paint in the world that consents localised repair.
